

Application No.: 09/612,797
Amendment Dated: August 23, 2004
Reply to Office Action of: June 22, 2004

MTS-3201US

ABSTRACT

A multivalued information recording method in which energy applied to information units on a recording medium is varied to record multivalued information. In accordance with a relationship between the multivalued information in a predetermined information unit and the multivalued information in information units adjacent to the predetermined information unit, the energy applied to the predetermined information unit is decided.